Looking down the road towards impact: How to conceptualize your research through the Translational Science Benefits Model (TBSM) framework

In this talk, Dr. Douglas A. Luke will explore the Translational Science Benefits Model (TSBM) framework as a powerful tool for researchers to envision the trajectory of their work from conception to real-world impact. Whether you are an early-stage investigator or an established researcher, this talk will provide valuable insights into how you can effectively conceptualize your research to drive meaningful change in healthcare and beyond.
